

Natalie Angell
USGLC

Natalie Angell, a senior, is originally from a small town near Traverse City. Her visits to multiple countries inspired her to major in International Studies with a concentration on Global Environment and Health, and minor in Education for Empowerment. She plans to pursue a master's degree in Public Health. Natalie is interested in health education and equity, community-based health initiatives and sustainability projects. Natalie loves ice cream, spending time up north with her family and considers her greatest accomplishment to be climbing to the top of Mt. Kilimanjaro in 2019.

Madalyn Boyd
Representative Debbie Dingell

Madalyn Boyd is a junior studying Political Science and Communication Studies, and she is discerning which area she wishes to pursue for a career. She has been a Recreational Sports Marketing intern and is the Michigan Yoga Club's recruitment chair. She is interested in marketing and media effects on public policy. Her interest in political science stems from her passion for social justice and the desire to go to law school. Madalyn practices yoga and enjoys exercising outdoors, ways to calm the mind and enhance productivity.

Tuhin Chakraborty
American Enterprise Institute

Tuhin Chakraborty is a rising junior at the UM Ford School of Public Policy, studying economic policy decisions and why they occur. He is also pursuing minors in history and music. Tuhin interned for Rep. Haley Stevens (MI-11) in DC in summer 2019. He complemented his public-sector internship with a private-sector one on the Quicken Loans government affairs team this past summer. His professional interests include economic policy, foreign policy, and issues that involve their intersection. In his free time, Tuhin enjoys playing academic trivia tournaments, playing the piano, and reading philosophy.

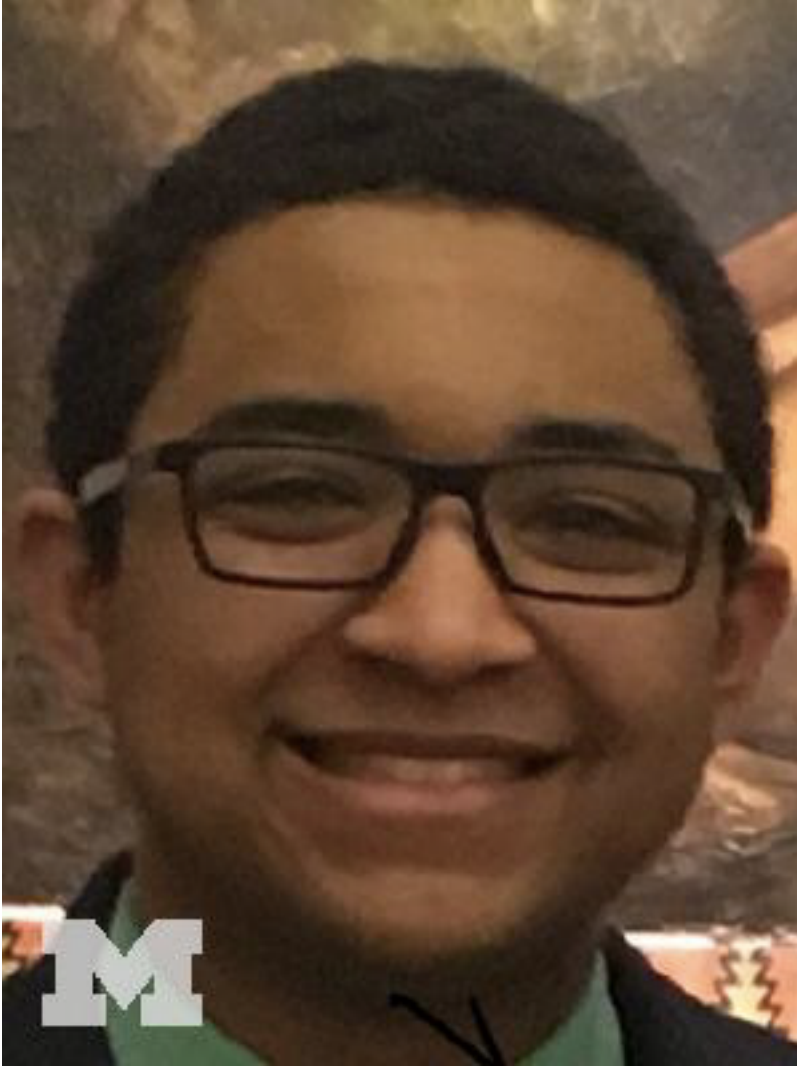

Catherine Hadley
Patriotic Millionaires

Catherine Hadley is a junior in political science, a mother of two toddlers, an activist, and an advocate. Catherine founded BirthSafe.org, a maternal health-specific review website. She has lobbied for maternal health bills in Michigan and in Washington D.C. She is a member of the Hungry for Justice SNAP expansion coalition, which successfully lobbied for a bill to allow food assistance for low-income Michiganders convicted of two or more drug felonies. She currently interns with Michigan Women’s Commission, focusing on visible authentic leadership with elected women. She is interested in birth equity and justice, women’s rights, and health issues.

Chloe Hale
Torture Abolition and Survivors Support Coalition International

Chloe Hale's primary interest is how the U.S. government has historically leveraged national security threats to oppress and limit the rights of citizens and noncitizens. She will apply that knowledge to protect climate refugees in the wake of climate change. Chloe is majoring in political science, social theory and practice with a focus in human rights, as well as minoring in Spanish. She is a fellow for the Detroit Community-Engaged Research Program that partnered her with Soulardarity, a non-profit working to create a community-owned sustainable energy system in Highland Park. She is also a co-director of FneUM, which promotes education, as well as community development projects in Chacraseca, Nicaragua. Chloe is a Political Science Department research assistant and a America Reads literacy tutor. She was raised in Marquette, MI and, given her childhood in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, she loves camping and hiking.

Keith Johnstone
House Committee on Science, Space, and Technology

Keith Johnstone is a junior majoring in Business Administration at the Ross School with a minor in Public Policy at the Ford School, and he would like to work as an intern on Capitol Hill. He worked for the Elissa Slotkin for Congress campaign and the Michigan AFL-CIO this past summer, and next summer, he has management consulting internship with McKinsey & Company. Originally from Bloomfield Hills, he went to school and worked six years in Detroit simultaneously for three different nonprofit organizations. As a member of the development and community relations teams, Keith painted more than 30 murals and helped to raise a total of $50,000 at his three jobs. Now, on campus, Keith works as a research grant manager at the University of Michigan School of Nursing's Center for Sexuality and Health Disparities, researching sexual health for adolescent young adult African-American males.

Alex Marotti
Anti-Defamation League

The 2016 Democratic primaries inspired Alex Marotti to pursue a career in politics, and he has had an abiding interest in gun violence prevention ever since the Sandy Hook shooting. He interned at the National Council of Jewish Women | Los Angeles in 2016 and in California State Senator Holly Mitchell's district office in 2018. In MIW, he would like to intern for a Democratic legislator or committee staff on Capitol Hill. Born in Chicago, Alex has lived in New York and Santa Cruz; he now lives in Culver City in Los Angeles County, California. In high school, Alex was the captain of his school's tennis team; he also played in an ice hockey league and continues to be an avid Chicago hockey fan. He helped his former hockey coach raise money for cancer research. Alex enjoys reading, playing video games and drawing.

Emily Nash
Northeast-Midwest Institute

Emily Nash is a senior studying political science and environmental science, planning an environmental law career. Last year, she visited Chiang Mai, Thailand to study food systems and ecology, allowing her to see the importance of having policymakers understand science. Emily works as a Michigan Housing Resident Coordinator, assisting residents and staff build community in the residence halls. She also enjoys hiking, road trips, and long walks through nature preserves with her 3-year old husky.

Joshua Nicklin
American Legislative Exchange Council

Joshua Nicklin, a Political Science senior, is a non-traditional student experienced in small business and non-profit work, including two years as a missionary during the 2008 economic crisis. He has started four small businesses and currently serves as the Genesis Property Solutions LLC Director of Business Development. Joshua believes in following an Aristotelian life path that includes pursuing truth, applying knowledge and becoming virtuous. He does not see the need to compartmentalize his thoughts and actions between private and public life. This semester Joshua is in Fortaleza, Brazil where he frequents the many beautiful beaches and any stand that sells coconuts or shrimp. He and his sweetheart, Lola, plan to marry next fall.

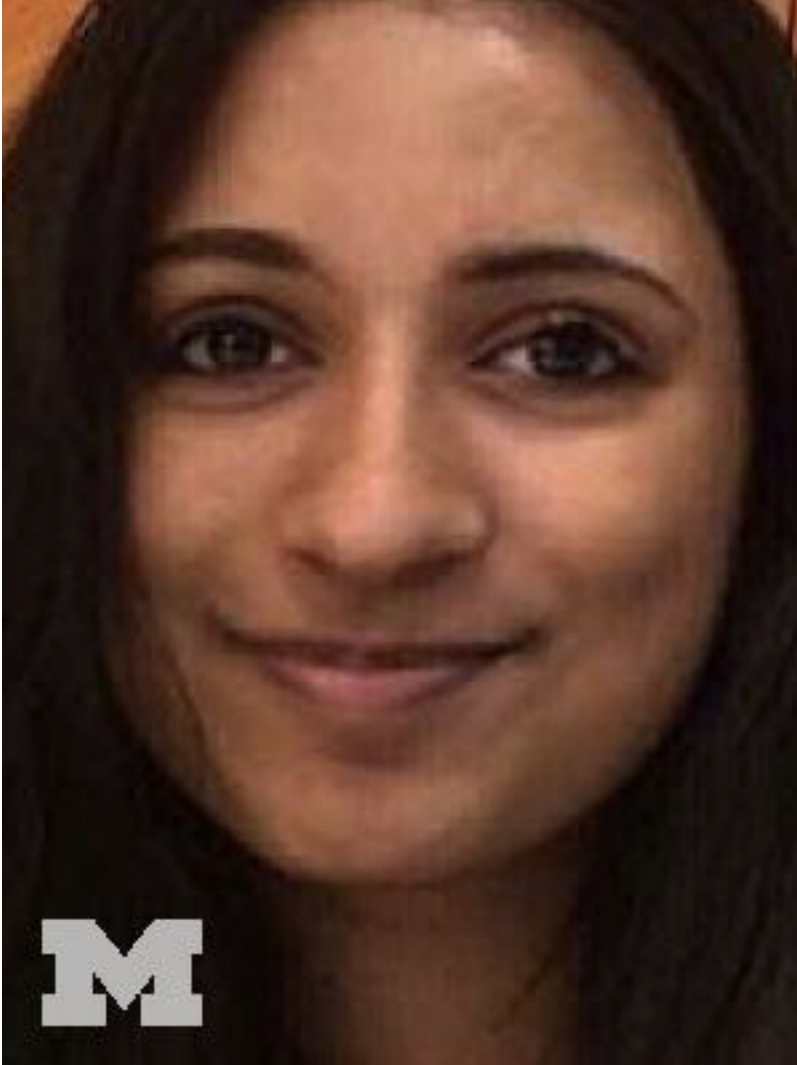

Rebecca Petersen
U.S. Consulate-Hamburg, Germany

Rebecca Petersen is a first-generation student at the University of Michigan double majoring in Political Science and German with a minor in Public Policy. Rebecca is a virtual cultural diplomacy intern for the US Consulate General in Hamburg, Germany. Rebecca is a native Michigander from Ypsilanti, interested in include women’s rights, criminal justice reform, and poverty solutions. As an Executive Board member of U of M’s branch of the Leading Women of Tomorrow, she created “Bridging the Gap,” connecting young women interested in politics with different female political figures. Rebecca’s hobbies include the visual arts and music.

Katherine Springer
Georgetown Center for Global Health Science and Security and Pandemic Action Network

Katherine Springer is a junior studying Evolutionary Anthropology with a minor in the Sociology of Health and Medicine. She plans to earn her Master's in Public Health. Her interests are epidemiology, environmental health sciences, and health policy. She is working for the School of Public Health epigenetics lab in the Environmental Health Sciences Department. She hopes to intern with a think tank involved with pandemic response, with the D.C. Department of Public Health, or with some other health-related organization. In her free time, Katherine enjoys martial arts. She is a third-degree black belt in Tae Kwon Do and also enjoys boxing.

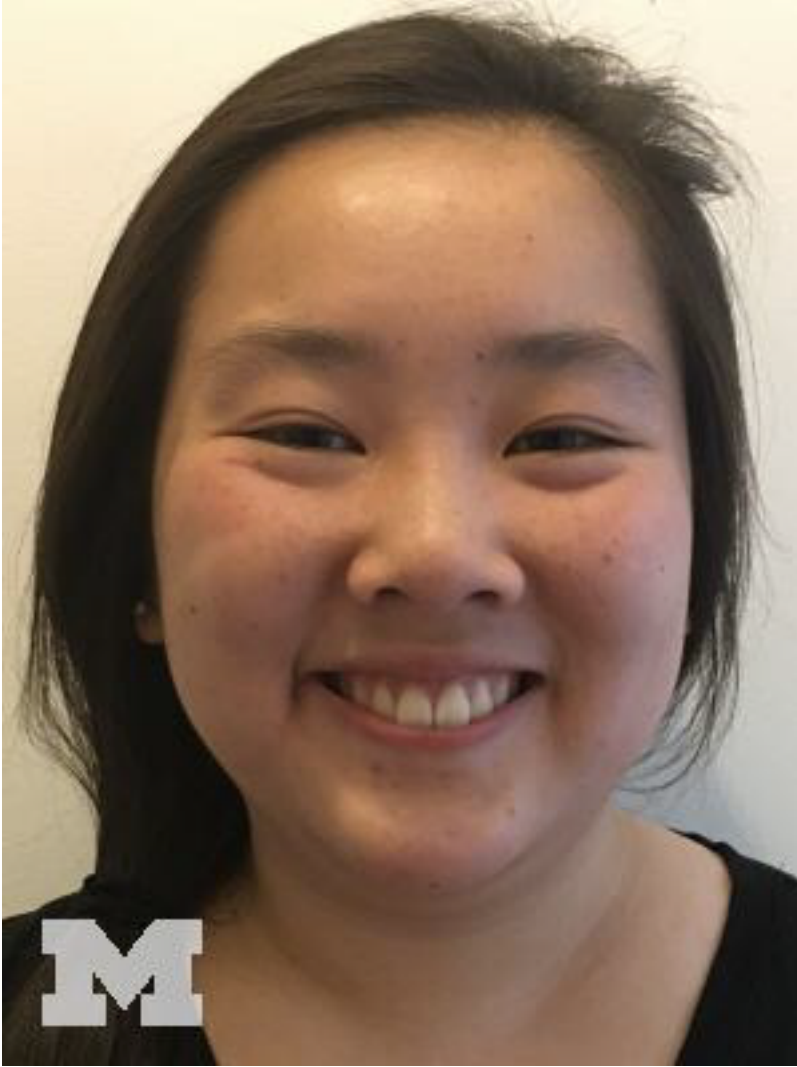

Jessica Vinagolu-Baur
Department of Justice- Consumer Protection Branch

A native of New York City, Jessica Vinagolu-Baur is a junior majoring in Psychology, minoring in Science, Technology and Society, and planning to build a career in consumer protection and privacy after law school. She interned at a law firm specializing in asset protection and researched the impact digital assets can have on such planning. Jessica is a member of Phi Gamma Nu, a professional development organization, and a member of the UM Department of Recreational Sports marketing team. As a campus tour guide, Jessica enjoys interacting with prospective students. In her free time, Jessica posts to her photography blog, is learning how to tango and works toward perfecting her culinary skills.

Shane Werner
Penn Hill Group

Shane Werner is a junior majoring in Political Science and History, interested in government relations, business tax policy and law. He plans to pursue a J.D.-M.B.A. program. Shane grew up in Hudsonville, Michigan, just outside Grand Rapids, and he spends his summers in Northern Michigan with his family, playing golf and boating on Torch Lake. Shane enjoys his work at WolvSportsTV, a student-run broadcast that produces weekly content concerning Michigan Athletics.

Suki Zhao
Human Rights First

Suki Zhao, a junior in Political Science and International Studies, is passionate about immigrants' rights, public policy and the law; so, she is planning to go to graduate school or law school. Her 2020 spring break volunteer work at an immigration and refugee resource center sharpened her desire to become an immigration counselor or attorney. Suki is a member of: the Michigan Community Scholars Program and the Global Scholars Program; a social committee member of Circle K; and, the webmaster of Michigan Taekwondo. Suki enjoys hiking, skating, and skiing. This love of nature and winter sports comes from having grown up in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.