Conditions Governing Rights and Reproductions

Reproduction Policy for Images and Video

Requests for reproductions of objects from the Kelsey Museum's collections may be made for scholarly, noncommercial purposes or for commercial purposes. All reproductions require approval from the museum director. Requests for reproductions must be made in writing to the director, in care of the Collections Department, Kelsey Museum of Archaeology, via the Application for Reproduction Permission form. All requests for permission to reproduce must include complete details as to the intended use. Reproduction rights must be obtained prior to reproduction.

The processing of reproduction requests requires at least 30 days of advance notice. More time may be needed for large orders, for orders placed during busy periods of the academic year, or for orders requiring new photographs to be taken.

FEES

Fees may be charged for reproduction rights for any collection object to which the University of Michigan has title. All fees will be paid in advance to the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology. Failure to pay the required fees for reproduction means that permission has not been granted. Paid fees are nonrefundable.

RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS

The reproduction may be used only once and only for the purpose for which permission was granted. Single use is defined as a publication or product having a single physical format, a single date of production, and a single market. Any change in content constitutes a separate edition. Any subsequent or different use, including subsequent editions, editions in a different physical format, or editions in a different language, constitutes a reuse and a new application must be made in writing. Fees may also be charged for reuse.

Permission is valid only for the individual, company, or institution to whom it is specifically issued and may not be transferred, assigned, sold, or otherwise disposed of without written permission from the museum.

Each object must be reproduced unaltered and in its entirety, unless approved in advance and in writing by the museum. For images, the reproduction must be full-tone black and white or full color and must not be cropped, bled off the page, printed on color stock or with colored ink, nor have anything superimposed on the image. When a detail is used, the word "detail" must appear in the caption with the complete credit line. If so requested on the Application for Reproduction Permission form, a proof must be approved by the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology before reproduction of an image in color.

The publisher must provide the museum with one complete, gratis copy of the publication in which the image is reproduced and notify the museum of any public screening, initial broadcast, or publication dates. Purchasing reproductions for study or research purposes does not imply the right to publish or reproduce.

Reproduction Policy for Digital Models and 3D Printing

Requests for new digital or physical three-dimensional reproductions (using photogrammetry, laser scanning, or other methods) of objects from the Kelsey Museum's collections may be made for scholarly, noncommercial purposes or for commercial purposes. The museum may provide public access to digital 3D models and files for 3D printing reproductions of objects from the museum's collections; they may be used freely for scholarly, educational, or noncommercial purposes, but the files, objects printed from the files, and files or objects deriving therefrom may not be sold without the express approval of the museum director.

Requests for commercial three-dimensional reproduction, as well as requests for new, noncommercial reproduction, must be made in writing to the director, in care of the Collections Department, Kelsey Museum of Archaeology. All requests must include complete details as to the intended use. Any resulting files must be provided to the museum. Commercial reproduction rights must be obtained in writing from the Kelsey Museum prior to reproduction. Any approved commercial use may be subject to fees and additional restrictions specified in the use agreement.

Copyright and Title

The Kelsey Museum of Archaeology will endeavor only to grant permission to reproduce objects that are in the public domain or for which the museum is the owner of the copyright or trademark.

If a request is made for an object that falls outside of these parameters, the Kelsey Museum will not approve reproduction requests unless written permission is provided by the copyright or trademark owner. The responsibility for ascertaining whether such rights exist and for obtaining all other necessary permissions remains with the applicant. Museum staff cannot serve as an intermediary to obtain permission from a copyright holder on behalf of the applicant.

The museum makes no warranties or representations and assumes no responsibility whatsoever for claims against the applicant or museum by artists, their agents, estates, or any parties in connection with the reproduction of objects in the museum's collections. The applicant agrees to protect, defend, indemnify, save, and hold harmless the University of Michigan and Kelsey Museum of Archaeology against any and all such claims, including copyright infringement claims, trademark infringement claims, invasion of privacy claims, publicity claims, moral rights claims, and royalty or fee demands and/or actions, including all attorneys fees and the costs thereof, arising as a result of the applicant's reproduction of objects in the museum's collections, or which may occur or in any way grow out of any act or omission of the applicant, its agents, servants, and employees. The applicant agrees to investigate, handle, respond to, provide defense for, and defend any such claims, demands, or suits at its sole expense and agrees to bear all other costs and expenses related thereto, even if it is groundless, false, or fraudulent. Any and all royalty payments or other requirements specified by the copyright owner of an object must be paid or honored by the applicant or his/her agent.

In authorizing the publication, the University of Michigan and Kelsey Museum of Archaeology retain all rights and do not surrender their right to publish the image or to grant permission to others to do so.

Warning Concerning Copyright Restrictions

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material. Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish photocopies or other reproductions. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not to be "used for any purposes other than private study, scholarship or research." If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," that user may be liable for copyright infringement. The Kelsey Museum of Archaeology reserves the right to refuse to accept a reproduction request if, in its judgment, fulfillment of the request would involve the violation of copyright law.

Rights of Privacy

An individual depicted in a reproduction has privacy rights as outlined in Title 45 CFR Section 46 (Protection of Human Subjects). The Kelsey Museum of Archaeology reserves the right to require a release from individuals whose privacy may be violated by the reproduction.

Right of Refusal

The Kelsey Museum reserves the right to refuse reproduction if in the best interest of the museum or to limit the number of copies, restrict the use or reproduction of rare, fragile, or valuable objects, make special quotations for objects that are unusually difficult to copy, and/or charge a higher copying fee than specified, in accordance with applicable law. The museum reserves the right to deny permission to reproduce an image, film, or object from its collection to any applicant whose product is not acceptable to the museum for any reason. The applicant agrees to use the materials for appropriate and legal purposes.

Credit Lines

The applicant agrees to comply with all written instructions regarding credit lines or the use of the name Kelsey Museum of Archaeology. The applicant also agrees to accurately represent the content of the image in any caption using the terminology provided by the museum. The caption and credit line provided by the museum must accompany the reproduction, either in the immediate proximity of the image or in the section devoted to photographic credits. Abbreviations are not permitted. It is mandatory that the reproduction is credited as specified.

Use of the Name of the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology

The name of the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology may only be used by the requester as specified in the credit line provided by the museum. The name of the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology may not be used in any way that suggests or implies an endorsement by the museum of other organizations, their products, or their services. The use of the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology's name for any commercial purposes is prohibited without express written permission from the museum.

Photography

The museum does not have a professional photographer on staff; arrangements for original, high-resolution photography are typically made through an outside vendor. Researchers wishing to publish their own photos of a KMA artifact must still apply for permission.

In the event that permission is granted for the researcher to bring in an outside photographer, the museum must be provided with digital copies of the resulting images at no cost. The researcher must coordinate photography with the Collections Department in such a way that it has minimal impact on the day-to-day operations of the museum. Copyright in such images must either be transferred to the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology in writing, or the photographer must grant the museum a perpetual, exclusive license to reproduce the images.

If a request necessitates new photography, the Kelsey Museum will retain copies of the original digital files. Requests for new photography will be processed in the order in which they are received and will be subject to the limited availability of the university's photographer. New photography of artifacts requires a minimum of six weeks' advance notice.

Electronic Distribution of Reproductions

Reproductions distributed electronically must contain the credit line specified by the museum as part of the image, film, or other file. When permission is granted to disseminate reproductions electronically, the museum reserves the right to require an electronic watermark or other identifying code within the file naming the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology as the copyright owner in the image, film, or other file. If permission is granted for the requester to publish a reproduction on their website, a link must be provided to the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology's website.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS: _____

I have read the Kelsey Museum's "Conditions Governing Right and Reproductions" and understand the requirements and restrictions, by which I agree to be bound, in the event permission is granted, and which are expressly incorporated into this Application for Reproduction Permission agreement by reference. I further agree to promptly pay all applicable fees. Completion of this form signifies acceptance of the above statement.
