

CES Center for European Studies

Thursday, Oct. 4, 4 pm • 1636 International Institute

CONVERSATIONS ON EUROPE

ATHENS, NOTICE YOUR POET

Natalie Bakopoulos

Novelist

Lecturer in English, University of Michigan

Natalie Bakopoulos is a novelist; lecturer in English and affiliated faculty in Modern Greek, U-M. She holds an MFA in Fiction from the University of Michigan, where she now teaches. Her work has appeared in Tin House, Ninth Letter, and Granta Online, and received a 2010 O. Henry Award, a Hopwood Award, and Platsis Prize for Work in the Greek Legacy.

She is a contributing editor for the online journal Fiction Writers Review (www.fictionwritersreview.com). Each summer she teaches creative writing at the Aegean Arts Circle in Andros, Greece.

The Green Shore is Natalie Bakopoulos's first novel.

Free and open to the public.

Co-sponsor: Modern Greek Program.

Center for European Studies
University of Michigan
1080 S. University, Suite 3668
Ann Arbor 48109-1106
734.647.2743
www.ii.umich.edu/ces

