

The Law, Justice, and Social Change (LJSC) minor offers students a coherent curriculum that emphasizes the relationship between legal institutions, inequality, and the capacity of social groups to produce fundamental social change.

The minor in Law, Justice, and Social Change will offer students:

- An understanding of theoretical perspectives on justice and on the connection between law and society
- Frameworks for thinking about legal compliance, deviance, and resistance
- Perspectives for thinking about the relationship between “law on the books” and “law in action”
- Tools for thinking about the relationship between law and social change
- Understandings of the law in international contexts and in regard to human rights issues
- The foundation of theory, methods, and substantive knowledge necessary to develop informed perspectives on criminality, crime policy, and the social consequences of legal punishment
- Tools for understanding the role of social policies in creating and ameliorating inequality

For students interested in the following career paths:

- Law
- Public Policy
- Criminal Justice
- Social Work
- Grassroots Social Change

PREREQUISITE COURSE

Prospective minors must complete one prerequisite course with a C- grade or better in order to declare. First and second year students should enroll in either SOC 100 or SOC 102. Third and fourth year students should enroll in either SOC 300 or SOC 302. Students may also transfer in an approved Introduction to Sociology course from another institution. Prerequisite course credits DO NOT count toward the 15 required minor credits. Students should only take ONE prerequisite course; no credit will be granted for the second prerequisite course taken.

CREDIT/PLAN EXCLUSIONS

A maximum of 6 credits in the minor plan may come from Experiential Learning or Independent Study style courses. This includes but is not limited to SOC 225, 325, 391, 394, 395, 396, 468, and 488.

The department will allow up to one course with significant sociological content related to Law, Justice, and Social Change from other LSA departments to be included in the minor plan. Students interested in petitioning to include a non-SOC course in their minor plan should complete the course petition process, which includes submitting a petition form and the course syllabus.

At least 9 out of the 15 credits must be taken in-residence at U-M.

Students minoring in Crime & Justice or History of Law & Policy are not permitted to also declare the Law, Justice, and Social Change minor.
